

Bob Fitzpatrick

Senior Vice President,
Requirements & Capabilities

Bob Fitzpatrick is senior vice president of Requirements & Capabilities for Raytheon, a business of RTX that specializes in integrated air and missile defense, advanced sensors, space-based systems, hypersonics and effectors. He leads efforts to identify and capture new business opportunities, both in the U.S. and internationally.

Prior to his current role, Fitzpatrick was vice president of Requirements & Capabilities for Raytheon Missiles & Defense. Before that, he was vice president of Business Development for Raytheon Integrated Defense Systems and Raytheon Missile Systems before Raytheon Company's merger with United Technologies Corporation in 2020.

Fitzpatrick served 14 years in the U.S. Army as an attack helicopter operations officer, then worked for seven years in the U.S. Air Force's C-17 program office at Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Fitzpatrick holds an MBA from the Keller School of Management and a bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering from Arizona State University.